FAQS

How do I know if I need a stylist?

A wedding stylist is an ideal investment for couples who want to create a visually beautiful and stress-free wedding experience.

We also find many of our couples have a vision in mind, but no idea how to tie their ideas together into a cohesive theme. A wedding stylist has the creative skills and industry expertise to make your vision a reality. We ensure every last detail - from furniture and decor to flowers, stationery and lighting - works harmoniously together to achieve your desired atmosphere.

How much does a wedding styling and planning cost?

The costs involved in styling a wedding vary from couple to couple. It really depends on your own unique vision, guest numbers, venue, location and priorities for the day.

As a rough guide, our couple's average investment is anywhere between $2,000 - $8,500 on the styling elements involved in their wedding. We recommend booking in for a complimentary consultation with our stylists who can create a tailored quote to suit your individual needs.

Our wedding planning packages range from $450 to $7500, depending on the level of assistance required.

What is the difference between a wedding stylist and a wedding planner?

A wedding stylist are instinctively visual people who understand how different design elements work together to create a unique experience. A wedding stylist will focus on how your day is going to look and feel, and the atmosphere you want to achieve.

On the other hand, a wedding planner is more like the "project manager" of your wedding. With strong skills in organisation, multitasking and communication, they're the ones responsible for the function and flow of your wedding, including managing your suppliers, developing a timeline and troubleshooting any issues that may arise on the day.

How does the process work?

First, we'll kick off with an initial consultation over the phone or in our Noosaville showroom, where we get to know you both as a couple.

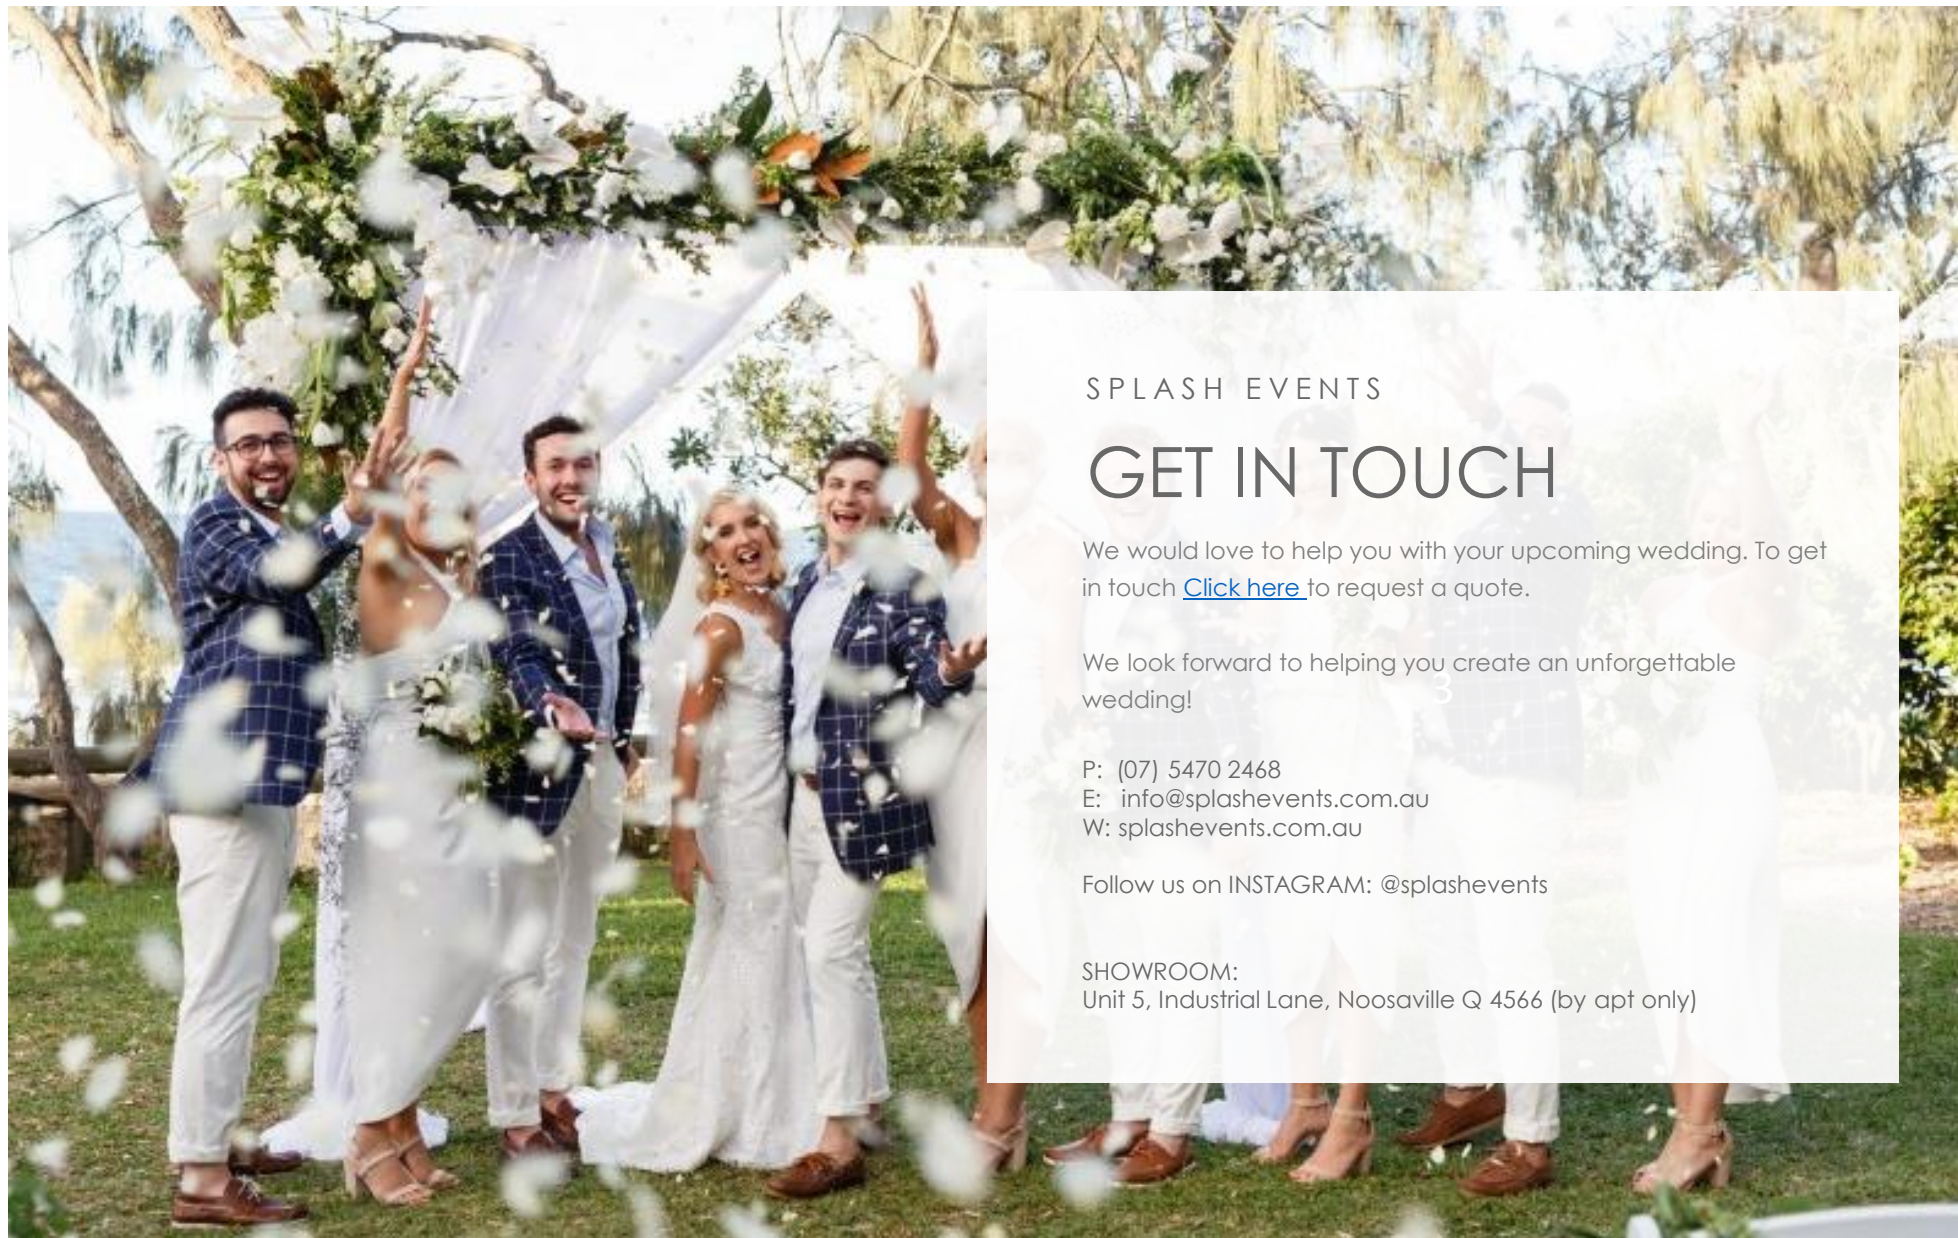

Then, the fun part! We'll present you with a custom design proposal that encapsulates your vision, including styling details and costs.

Finally, we'll get to work executing your vision. We'll bring the team of suppliers together, coordinate all of your styling elements, and ensure everything is immaculately presented on the day.

We will also pack everything up after so you don't have to lift a finger.
